

To Whom it May Concern,

Every starving artist knows what its like to be completely resourceful with limited items available. Where funding is low, creativity shines brighter. Allen Panakal is born from the egg of renaissance men, adapting his craftsmanship to entice any circumstance envisioned. He is the magician levitating the elephant, the astronaut surfing the time-space continuum, the Jacques Cousteau of the underworld, and he does it all with finesse.

The class of artistry he uses with creating websites for me and my associates is outstanding and I will always recommend his services to those who can appreciate his level of determination in creating quality projects.

I am looking forward to seeing the new projects ZeroHour Studios will be creating in the upcoming months.
